

Harry G. Ford is a licensed Marriage and Family Therapist and the President and Founder of Tezet Institute. He is charged with the development of Tezet's clinical services, community trainings and workshops, and cultural consultation. Mr. Ford is responsible for the development and implementation of program operations and oversees the organization's annual budgets and contracts. Harry Ford provides direct service to individuals and families as an Individual and Family Therapist. Mr. Ford directly supervises all of the agencies staff and interns, and is accountable for ensuring that all programs are consistent with the mission of the agency.

A native of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Harry Ford holds a baccalaureate degree in Religious Studies from Augsburg College and a master's degree in Marriage and Family Therapy from the University of Wisconsin-Stout. He is also a member of the Minnesota and National Association of Marriage and Family Therapists. Harry serves as a lecturer at the University Wisconsin-Stout in the department of Human Development and Family Studies. Mr. Ford has also lectured on many current issues related to cultural awareness, work place and family policies, and clinical/helping skills training and development. In addition, Mr. Ford has served on the Board of Directors for Odyssey Charter School in Brooklyn Center.